

Georgia on My Mind

For generations, Georgia has been home to artists and cultural leaders whose creativity, vision, and influence have helped shape the story of American music.

Throughout his remarkable career, Chuck Stewart documented many of these legendary figures, preserving moments that span jazz, rhythm and blues, soul, rock 'n' roll, and the broader landscape of American culture.

Featuring photographs of Ray Charles, James Brown, Gladys Knight, Little Richard, Peabo Bryson, Mary Lou Williams, James Moody, Joe Williams, Sahib Shihab, Harry James, Patti LaBelle with Coretta Scott King, and others, this gallery celebrates the enduring legacy of artists whose voices continue to inspire generations.

“They remind us that the story of American music cannot be told without Georgia.”
